As the owner of a Hair Salon, Sonya Draina understands the importance of a smile. "My teeth have always been in pretty good health," says Sonya, "and I have always felt that I take a big step forward to winning someone over as a friend, a client or a business partner if I begin our greeting with a nice smile."

It helps that Sonya has an infectious personality and just can't help but to smile a lot. Her personality and desire to have people like her while aiming to please has rubbed off on her daughter Roxie too. Roxie now works in her mother's salon part-time while attending a local college.

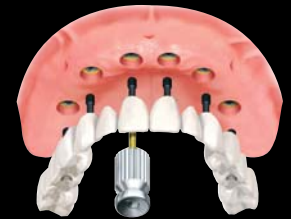

However, Roxie's smile had a noticeable gap between her foremost upper teeth. It didn't really bother her much. She and her mom expected the gap to close in her teen years. When this didn't happen, Sonya offered to have it fixed prior to Roxie's senior year in high school so she could look her best for her senior picture. She told Roxie... "I know exactly who we should go to for this."

Sonya had read several magazine articles about Dr. Saeid Mohtashami of All Bright Dental and saw what he was capable of when it came to fixing a smile. She was thinking about having a little cosmetic dentistry herself and figured that if Dr. Mohtashami could take the really difficult cases and make them look natural, he could help her and Roxie. They both went in to All Bright Dental for a complimentary consultation.

Both were so impressed by the facility, the team and the doctor that they agreed to move forward with their smile enhancements as soon as possible.

"Dr. Mohtashami was kind and gentle, explained everything in such detail and answered every question we could think of," says Roxie. "We knew we were in the right place once we met him. He's awesome."

"Mom had six veneers placed in her upper smile zone to correct crowding and color and four in the lower. It only took four in my upper smile zone to close my gap and make my smile look completely natural. We both love the end result and the procedure was easy. Our friends, family and salon patrons have been astounded by the difference this simple procedure has made for each of us!"
